Careers at the Bureau for Humanitarian Assistance

The new USAID Bureau for Humanitarian Assistance—or BHA—leads and coordinates the U.S. Government's disaster assistance efforts overseas, reaching millions of people around the world with life-saving aid. BHA delivers humanitarian assistance to save lives and alleviate the suffering of people affected by disasters around the world. We also help the world's most vulnerable people prepare, recover, and transition from crisis toward prosperity and self-reliance.

BHA has hundreds of staff located in more than 45 countries and in its Washington, D.C. headquarters, including experts in food security, nutrition, water, health, shelter, logistics, agriculture, protection, and more. BHA staff are recruited through a number of hiring vehicles including PSC Contracts, Institutional Contractors, and USDA Forest Service Office of International Programs. Personal Services Contractors

In USAID, a personal services contractor, or PSC, is an individual who enters into a contract that generally establishes an employer-employee relationship with the Agency. The individual appears, in many respects, to be a Government employee; however, USAID's PSCs are legally not USG employees for the purposes of any law administered by the Office of Personnel Management. All PSC positions are open to U.S. citizens only.

Careers at the Bureau for Humanitarian Assistance

UN Junior Professional Officer (JPO) Program

Overview

Through USAID's Bureau for Humanitarian Assistance (USAID/BHA), the United States sponsors qualified U.S. citizens for employment across five UN agencies, including the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA), the UN Children's Fund (UNICEF), the UN Office for Disaster Risk Reduction (UNDRR), and the World Food Programme (WFP).

Working both in Headquarters and the field, BHA-sponsored JPOs have delivered important contributions to the humanitarian community—advancing priority technical and thematic areas—while cultivating their own professional growth and career development. After completing their JPO assignments, many USAID/BHA-sponsored JPOs have often successfully competed for positions within the UN and other international organizations.

Please see a one-page snapshot to learn more about BHA's support to the JPO program.

Eligibility

Qualifications for JPO positions vary, depending on the assignment and UN agency's selection criteria. The following criteria are most commonly used by UN agencies.

Education: An advanced university degree.

Experience: Three to five or more years of work experience in humanitarian assistance or disaster relief with an academic background in fields related to human rights, disaster management, international relations, international development or public policy. Prior work experience in or familiarity with the UN system is also helpful.

Languages: Proficiency in at least one U.N. working language in addition to English is preferred.
